

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A pointing device includes a first convex lens on a housing of the pointing device and arranged such that when a user's finger slides over the lens, an image of the user's finger is sensed to generate a cursor-moving or scrolling signal for a computer.